

Subject: Clark College Seeking CMA Course Instructor

As you may already know, Clark College has partnered with IMA to offer a non-credit CMA Exam preparation course based on IMA's CMA Learning System.

Here are just a few reasons why we're excited about this new program:

- The classroom provides a structured learning environment for those seeking the CMA credential. Classes offer a set schedule to keep individuals on track and opportunities for them to interact with peers and the instructor.
- Clark College will promote the course to its contacts in the community, helping IMA promote the CMA credential and grow membership.
- The local chapter will receive increased funding from IMA national based on increases in both the number of certified members and educational offerings.

Clark College will be one of 25 programs across the country offering the CMA Learning System course and together we are striving for success based on enrollments, quality preparation and pass rates.

The instructor is one of the most integral elements of any college or university class. We can all remember a few instructors who turned a regular course into an extraordinary one. This is where we are seeking your involvement...We need to recruit instructors for the CMA Learning System course.

We're looking for instructors who...

- Have earned the CMA credential
- Have experience teaching, training or facilitating adult learners
- Are dedicated to the success of the students – the future of our profession
- Have time to prepare and teach one or several of the four Parts. Each Part has been scheduled to meet for 4 Saturdays for 6 hours each, equaling 24 class hours (not including prep time). A syllabus and instructor materials, including instructor guides and PowerPoint slides, will be provided.

By becoming an instructor of the CMA Learning System course, you'll have a unique opportunity to...

- Advance the managerial finance and accounting profession in your community by ensuring development of advanced-level professionals
- Share your knowledge and provide leadership to future CMAs
- Network with school officials and students who seek career advancement opportunities
- Earn financial compensation for your local chapter

If you are interested in becoming a CMA Learning System instructor or have questions regarding this exciting opportunity, please contact Adeline Martinez, Clark College's Professional Development Coordinator, at amartinez@clark.edu or (360) 992-2484.
